Senator Shelley's Address, Music Highlight Freshman Assembly

"Get the facts."

This, in content, was the subject of Senator John W. Shelley's address to the students of San Francisco State last Wednesday at the Freshman Assembly held at the First Baptist Church.

Senator Shelley stated that our citizens are too ready to criticize our political and economic leaders without fully understanding the problems and backgrounds that have led to the current unrest. Senator Shelley demonstrated his point by making public certain facts, relative to the labor situation in San Francisco, that placed the strikers in an entirely new light.

Educating the Citizens

The San Francisco representative in the State Senate emphasized the need for educating the citizens. "Our citizens must learn to read between the lines. They must digest news, but, they must do so with an unbiased viewpoint," he said.

Senator Shelley's address highlighted an assembly welcoming returning veterans, incoming freshmen, and transfers from other schools. President J. Paul Leonard addressed the new students and commented on the program being formulated for the benefits of the veterans, specifically and the student body, generally. This program included changes and improvements in the curricula, an increased enrollment, and the new campus.

College Symphony

The symphony orchestra opened the program with Liszt's Fifth Symphony. The orchestra, conducted by Dr. William Knuth, made their first public appearance of the new term. The A Cappella choir, sang "The Turtle Dove," an English folk song and "O, Divine Light," a Russian ballad.

Dean P. F. Valentine introduced the speakers.

Johnson Speaks

Meta Johnson, president of the Associated Students, welcomed the newcomers to the campus and outlined the policy of the executive board. Miss Johnson said: "I am sure that those of you who are new to our campus will soon learn to love it as we have."

At the conclusion of her talk, Miss Johnson introduced the members of the executive board.

Following the assembly, a reception was held in the auditorium of the Frederic Burk School. Dr. Leonard, Senator Shelley, Dean Valentine, Dean Mary A. Ward, the members of the executive board, and the Freshman class officers were in the receiving line and personally greeted the new students.

G. Luehning Takes Over Management of Cafeteria

Management of the student Co-op was turned over to Miss Geraldine Luehning of Palo Alto on Monday, February 18, according to Caroline Nahman, business manager of the student body.

Miss Luehning, for the past fifteen years, has been with the Home Economics department in the Jordan Junior High School in Palo Alto, but "I accepted my call to San Francisco State College with the utmost enthusiasm," she said. While doing her undergraduate work at Chico State, she was a schoolmate of Coach Dan Farmer.

Graduate Dietician

Miss Luehning, a graduate dietician with two years of hospital experience, did graduate work at the University of Washington, but, other than this, all of her training has been in California. "I love California and expect to commute from Palo Alto daily, because I enjoy living there and don't want to leave," she confessed.

Expressing her enthusiasm for Dr. J. Paul Leonard, president of the college, she said, "He is a man of dynamic energy and a wonderful person." A firm believer in a co-operative management, Miss Luehning was happy to find that the Co-op is a student enterprise.

"I do not think that either long or hard work is necessary to make the Co-op more comfortable for its patrons," she said. "With a new campus in view, there are limits beyond which the attractiveness of the Co-op cannot be improved. Old equipment must be utilized

Enrollment Now At 1481 Mark

Enrollment figures as of last Tuesday evening showed a total of 675 new full-time students among the 1393 enrolled at this college. Of these new students 419 are men and 256 are women with 397 enrolled under the G. I. Bill of Rights. The registrar expects additional new students. The total enrollment of 1481 includes 88 limited students.

during this period of transition," she added.

Requests Suggestion

Miss Luehning wants student criticism but reserves the right to segregate constructive from plain "gripes." Thrilled with the warm reception which welcomed her on arrival, she said, "If co-operation of the staff and personal enthusiasm have anything to do with success, the Co-op will reach the point beyond which necessary limits make improvement impossible."

Pagani Replaces Osorio as Gater Editor in Chief

Don Pagani has been named editor of the Golden Gater, replacing Ed Osorio, who tendered his resignation to the Board of Publications at a special meeting held yesterday.

Pagani was appointed to fill the vacated editorial position immediately after the board voted to accept Osorio's resignation. Osorio has been editor of the Gater since the beginning of last fall semester.

Formerly assistant editor of the newspaper, Pagani has had considerable experience in Gater work, having served as reporter, columnist, and sports editor. Osorio gave as reason for quitting the editorship that he preferred to devote all of his energies to scholastic duties.

Program Outlined By Alpha Psi Omega

A calendar of events was drawn up for Alpha Psi Omega, honorary dramatic fraternity, for the coming semester at a recent meeting. Business meetings will be held every second and fourth Wednesday at the College theatre. During the month of March, new members will be pledged. Initiations will be held off campus at night.

Members of the fraternity and alumni will attend a showing of "Voice of the Turtle" at the Geary theatre in April. Also scheduled is a cake sale.

Officers will be elected and installed for the ensuing year in May. New members will be pledged at that time, but initiation will not take place until after summer.

Alumni members of the fraternity back on campus include Margaret Shearer, Allen Hummel and Marcus Davis.

IRC Open House Welcomes Guests

An introductory speech by Doris Hoffman, president of the International Relations Club, officially opened the reception party last Monday afternoon.

Arriving guests were received by members of the club and were introduced to the various other members and visitors present. After Miss Hoffman discussed the history, aims, and facilities of the club, cookies and ice cream were served by Ann Chick, Lila Rose, and Joyce Andersen, who temporarily dropped their respective roles of vice-president, treasurer, and librarian.

The I. R. C. will hold its first discussion meeting next Monday from 12:15 to 1 p. m. in the Activities room.

Hope, Dolan, Callaway, Chinn Elected to Executive Board

Four new members have been appointed to the Student Body Board of Directors, Meta Johnson, student body president, announced recently. Two members-at-large, a secretary, and an activities commissioner have been chosen.

One member-at-large position, left vacant by the withdrawal of Florence Lindsey from school, went to a returning veteran, Ivor Callaway. Ivor was yell-leader at State before his entry into the service.

A second member-at-large position will be filled by Johnny Chinn, replacing Winston Silva, who was recently drafted into the armed forces.

Secretary

The position of secretary is now held by June Dolan, who replaces Martha Sutorious, who also withdrew from school.

The new activities commissioner is Scott Hope, who replaces Ed Doty, forced to tender his resignation because of pressing academic responsibilities.

Brazilian Rector Visits Campus

Dr. George Americano, rector of the University of Sao Paulo, Brazil, spoke before the faculty during his tour of State College old and new campuses last Monday.

Objectives Stated

Introduced by President J. Paul Leonard, Dr. Americano urged as twin objectives for people everywhere, (1) the formation of a world government with supreme sovereignty for peacefully settling disputes among nations and (2) the establishment in every nation the principles of democracy, enforceable by the established world courts. "The four freedoms must be guaranteed to every man on earth," he declared. "Man has become a person in international law."

Accompanied by his 11-year-old son, George, Jr., and Senior J. de Freytas Valle, chief engineer in charge of buildings and grounds at Sao Paulo University, Dr. Americano visited the college and the new campus as a part of a tour of American colleges and universities.

Compares Schools

The Brazilian university, like State, will soon start a large building program, and the purpose of the tour is to obtain information about American universities to be used in planning the new University of Sao Paulo.

Dr. Americano is author of "The New Basis of International Law," the English translation of which he hopes to publish soon.

Following the elections of the new members, the Board discussed several issues, including the cut-rule, the qualifications for service and honorary organizations, and the Statement of Balance of the clubs and organizations on the campus.

The Board emphasized that the new organizations that will spring up on the campus this term must fulfill certain qualifications in their constitutions.

1. A definite statement of purpose must be contained.
2. It must be stated that all members must have, and maintain, a "C" average.
2. It must be stated that all members are possessors of Student Body cards.

The constitution of the original Thirteen was submitted to the Board for their approval, but because of a failure to comply with stated qualifications in their constitution, approval of their application has been withheld until the next meeting.

Break Ground Soon for Married Vets Housing Unit: Leonard

Ground breaking for 84 housing units to be erected on the new college campus for married veterans and families will begin soon, President J. Paul Leonard announced.

Word that San Francisco State College would receive the housing units was contained in a telegram received last week by President Leonard from Langdon W. Post of the Federal Public Housing Administration. The telegram was in response to a wire sent by Dr. Leonard two weeks ago requesting the buildings.

Cooperation Promised

"I am pleased to announce an allotment of 84 veterans' housing units in accordance with your application," Post's telegram said. "In view of the emergency I know we can count on your cooperation in proceeding with all possible speed to make this housing available to veterans."

Individual Units

The houses, to be located on the extreme western end of the Lake Merced campus just north of the present elementary school, are individual family units with one and two bedrooms. Grading and installation of utilities, costing an estimated $5,000, will be done by the State in preparation for setting up the units.

Married veterans may make applications at once to Dean David J. Cox for the new dwellings, which will be unfurnished. Rental charges, to be set by the OPA, are expected to be reasonable.

Open Special Summer Course To All Vets

"Additional educational opportunities in the line of special classes will be offered to veterans during this spring semester," Dr. John H. Butler, Dean of the Upper Division, stated today.

Workshop Courses

Plans are underway for special workshop courses designed to prepare students for regular classes into which they will be placed on April 8. On this date, students may enroll in special classes with double periods, i.e., six hours a week, so that they can complete nine semester units by the end of the term.

Students may also enroll in the special workshop classes during the months of April and May in preparation for the summer or fall sessions of 1946.

Expect Increase

Dr. Butler anticipates a large increase in student enrollment. He is confident, however, that the college counseling system can handle the expected increase. This school is the only one on the west coast to employ full time specialized counselors such as Mrs. Hilda Brown and Mrs. Eva Hodgson, instead of assigning certain faculty members the task of counseling as in other colleges. The employment of this system eliminates the probability of counselors influencing certain students to take subjects which they teach, Dr. Butler said.

The greatest problem presented by the expected increase in student enrollment is the insufficient room for classes. "Veterans will be accepted until all rooms and all seats are exhausted. There is also the possibility of additional classes being held from 4 to 5 p. m.," stated Dean Butler.

Additional information regarding specialized workshop courses and special double-period classes may be obtained at the counselor's office.

Phelan Estate Offers Awards In Art Drama

Two awards of $900 each will be offered for the year 1946-1947 to the best qualified applicants in the fields of dramatic writing and art by the trustees of the James D. Phelan estate.

The purpose of annual awards is to bring about a further development of native California talent in literature and art. For the first time the literature award is open exclusively to writers of drama. The art awards are open to all forms of art, including the field of sculpture.

Applicants for the awards must be native Californians between the ages of 20 and 40. Applications must be made on forms especially provided for that purpose, obtainable from the Phelan award office, 820 Phelan building, San Francisco. Competition closes April 30, 1946.

The applicants must furnish the names of three persons who know the field in which he is working and who are acquainted with the applicant and his work. In addition he must present specimens of his handiwork. The awards will be made about June 1.

Senior Exam Set For April 27

The American history examination which all graduating seniors must pass will be given on Saturday, April 27, from 9 to 11 a. m., according to Dr. Floyd Cave, chairman of the examination committee.

Miss Florence Vance, registrar, will notify students through their post office box regarding the test. Others wishing to take the examination must contact Dr. Cave in room 201 D.

"Until the curriculum is reorganized, students would profit by taking: Government 1A, Economics 11, and History 171 B," stated Dr. Cave.

Outlines and sample test questions will be distributed prior to the date of the test so that there will be adequate time for preparation.

Beginning next semester a sequence of courses to aid students studying for the test will be offered by the social science department.

Schapiro Plays At Music Forum

Maxim Schapiro, noted pianist, performed the evolution of the piano concerto at the recent meeting of the college symphony forum.

Mr. Schapiro, assisted by one of his pupils, demonstrated how the piano concerto has evolved since Bach's period, and played variations of many of the concertos. Following the performance, students were permitted to ask questions about the numbers played and to discuss other musical items of interest. Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting.

A box has been placed in the music alley where students are asked to put comments and suggestions pertaining to the forum which will help in making plans for another forum this semester.

Science Dept. Ups Its Enrollment

This semester a large number of students have enrolled in pre-professional courses in the science department, according to Dr. Edna L. Barney, medical director. She has counseled 95 students who intend to enter these courses during their college careers. Of this group, 53 are in the pre-nursing section, 20 in pre-medical, 14 in pre-dental, one in pre-chiropractic, four are unclassified, and one is planning a mortician's career.

The amazing growth of interest in pre-professional curriculum is due to the return of veterans and the call for nurses. Many of the pre-nursing students enter the University of California and Stanford Hospitals following their two-year courses here, and receive their degrees from those institutions.

Dr. Barney stated that as the enrollment grows, the interest for pre-professional courses will also grow, so that this college will soon be able to offer curriculum on the same standards with other bay area colleges.

Dr. Mildred Bush Completes Study

Dr. Mildred Bush, instructor in biological sciences, has recently completed research on some ophryoscolecids, symbiotic protozoans found in the stomachs of cud-chewing animals.

Dr. Bush directed her study on the organisms found in the stomach of a Sierra Nevada bighorn, a wild sheep. The organisms are necessary to the well-being of the sheep, as they transform rough plants into digestible food. The research paper will be printed in collaboration with Dr. C. A. Kofoid, in the University of California publications.

Political Hagglng Criticized By Returning Veterans in Written English Essays

Each semester San Francisco State's English department requires that an entrance examination, consisting of an objective test and a theme, be given to entering students in order to classify them in English classes. The themes written by veterans of World War II, who are entering State this semester give evidence that the returning men are not complacent and willing to "let the world go by."

On the subject of "one-world" a veteran said that our need for resources and raw materials from other nations and their need of ours necessitates actual world cooperation. While flying a transport plane, his daily stops in different countries made him realize the compactness of the world and the compulsion for a lasting peace.

Another returning veteran scorned the constant "hagglng" of the United Nations Organization and the imperialistic "grabbing" by the big powers. He expressed his belief that all colors and creeds can and must live together in harmony.

Voicing his opinion that a free-enterprise system presents unlimited opportunities to all men, another ex-serviceman suggested the development of a common language and currency whereby nations would be drawn together in peaceful effort.

Stimulated by the eagerness and spirit of these returned veterans, Mr. Hugh C. Baker, chairman of the English department, found the entering students to be an "able and willing group, anxious to master the fundamentals of language and to achieve a maturity of expression." Mr. Baker said that many of the students who thought they had failed, passed in the highest group because of their writing experience in the armed services. "A text-book now used in one of the college's advanced writing courses was used by a young man while in the service," related Mr. Baker. "The test average was unusually high," he said.

The results of the English entrance examinations give additional evidence that our colleges will be injected with new spirit and higher ideals of a world union as our veterans return to find their places among the educated of the world.

Orators Will Enter Call-Bulletin Contest

State College will enter a team of public speakers in the Call-Bulletin oratorical contest next Friday, March 8, speech instructor Miss Caroline Silverthorne announced late yesterday. Entrants to the contest will be selected early next week. Experienced student orators interested in participating in the contest are urged to see Miss Silverthorne at once.

Candid Photos Now Ready for '46 Franciscan

Over 300 candid pictures have been taken on the campus by photographer Bill Rapp for this year's Franciscan, Editor Harry Erlich announced recently. "Production of the yearbook is running smoothly and the finished product will be published in June," Erlich said.

Editorial positions on the Franciscan staff have been slightly altered. Assuming the position of assistant editor, Etta Bucholtz replaces Harriet Charles who has left the college. Art Blum has been named as an editorial assistant.

Students receiving notices to have pictures taken must appear at the time specified, for second notices will not be sent, according to Erlich.

A few copies of last year's Franciscan are still available in the student body office. Price of the book with a student body card is $2.00 and $2.75 without.

Frosh Picnic Draws Capacity Crowd: Presents Gator Stars

Before a capacity crowd of enthusiastic Staters, the Freshman class staged the first entertainment fiesta of the new term as part of their annual Frosh Party held February 20, at Sigmund Stern Grove.

With Vin O'Leary m'ceeing, the Freshmen, led by vice-president Jean Spaulding, brought forth an informal and impromptu review of Gator talent that held the audience in the palm of its hand for well over an hour.

Group singing lead by Mrs. Rose

Calvert was followed by the ever popular and really "hep" Three Jays. Corky Calvert then presented her version of the "Fire-Dance." This was followed by an interpretation of "If" by Jean Smith. Leighton Edelman contributed a bit of boogie on the keyboards, while Vince McGrath did a vocal of "Night and Day." Climax of the evening was the combination song and dance routine staged by a bevy of frosh beauties assisted by Dick Bunker.

The affair itself was adjudged successful since the new and the old State, the new freshies and vets, and the old freshies and upper classmen met and lived happily ever after. The purpose of the party was to bring the new and the old together informally. And that it did.

Next on top for the ambitious Freshman class is their annual Frosh Hop set for March 15, two weeks hence.

Pan American League Plans Discussions on Argentine

Mr. John Davis, president of the Argentine Trades Promotion Corporation, will address the local chapter of the Pan-American League next Wednesday on the political situation in Argentina, according to Peter Weiss, president of the local chapter.

The Pan-American League is a nation-wide organization with chapters in most of the schools and colleges of the country. It was originally established by Sumner Welles, former under-secretary of State, as part of the "good neighbor policy."

Other officers of the State chapter are Mary Milovich, vice president; Leona Junta, secretary; Esther Vasquez, treasurer; and Louise Nalbandian, publicity manager.

Dr. Somerville Thomson, associate professor of Spanish and sponsor of the chapter, strongly urges all who are interested to see him or any of the club officers.

New Frederic Burk Supervisor Arrives

Miss Esther Cahill has arrived from Cincinnati, Ohio, to assume her position as supervisor in the Frederic Burk Training School and instructor in education, replacing Miss Marilyn Hiney, who is leaving for work in Peru.

Miss Cahill is the possessor of a Bachelor of Arts degree from Notre Dame and a Master of Arts degree from Columbia. She has also done additional graduate work at the University of California at Los Angeles, and at University of Cincinnati. Miss Cahill has taught for ten years in the Cincinnati public schools and also for ten years in Sacred Heart College in Louisville, Kentucky.

"I love to get up early and I would rather teach school than eat," says Miss Cahill. "I like people and I am never so happy as when I can work with others. I have learned that every person, regardless of his education, race or creed, has something valuable to contribute to my education," she concluded.

Miss Cahill is interested in the theatre and has been active in curriculum committees. She has also done writing for national journals.

Dr. Bush To Teach English Classes

Dr. Mildred Bush, instructor of biological sciences at the college, will teach two sections of English 2 this semester, according to Mr. Hugh C. Baker, English department chairman.

Dr. Bush is the possessor of a masters degree in English and has had several stories published. She taught high school English in the mid-west previously, but since that time has directed her interests in the field of science.

Marge Shearer, popular Alpha Psi Omega and veteran of many USO shows, returned this semester to State. Her role of Mary in "The Women" left a never-to-be-forgotten impression in the memory of State theatre-goers.

Plans for Term Play Underway

Five, one-act plays have been selected for production some time this semester, and plans are already underway for the term play, according to Miss Carolyn Silverthorne, voice instructor.

"The class in Speech 125 is filled to overflowing with good actors," said Miss Silverthorne. "Students can expect some fine work from the actors of the Spring semester," she concluded.

The Voice Indication class (Speech 33) is also filled, having 36 students. In order to give students additional voice work, choral reading recital has been planned which will take place toward the end of the semester and will be open to the public.

Knuth Addresses PE Conference

Dr. William Knuth, professor of music, addressed the California Association of Physical Education, Health, and Recreation regarding the offerings in recreational leadership training, at a recent Mills college conference.

Dr. Knuth stressed the advantages of recreational activities in the colleges and high schools, and discussed the features of the recreation program at State. He pointed out that the program not only represents the physical education division but functions in collaboration with the music, art, sociology, natural science, speech, and drama departments. Plans are being made for offering a recreation major in the fall semester.

A. W. S.

The A. W. S. took a large part in the recent Freshman Reception held at Frederic Burk auditorium with Bernice Bedwell heading the invitation committee; Tuulikki Stromberg, the refreshment committee; June Dolan, publicity; and Beatrice Fitzgerald, the decoration committee.

Modern Style Keynotes Merced Fine Arts Building

Liberal use of glass windows and glass brick will be featured in San Francisco State College's Fine Arts and Home Economics building to be constructed on the Lake Merced campus. The two story building will also house many innovations for the students of the college. The main floor will be approximately three hundred feet long with two small wings. A museum for paintings and other arts and crafts will be located in the southern wing, as will the photography room and one large drawing room.

Four large classrooms and one lecture room will be located in the main section of the building on the lower floor. These are the weaving room, clay modeling and pottery laboratory, graphic arts, elementary arts and crafts, and a large lecture room. Faculty offices will be located in the west side near the center of the building.

Glass Brick Walls

Two walls of glass brick will be the feature of the western wing. This wing will consist of one large room for life drawing and costume display classes, and will be two stories high.

The second floor will be approximately one hundred and sixty feet long, housing four classrooms and one lecture room, being located on the eastern side.

A cooking laboratory, with laundry and dining room, will occupy the north-western half of the building. Two design classes will be housed in the south-west-

GROSSO OFFERS AID

Felix B. Grosso, News Editor of Station KILX and class of '38, has offered his services to San Francisco State for the advancement of our college.

Grosso, who is in a position to do much to publicize State, will donate his services.

Along with June Gyselbrecht, Larry Fanning, Betty Cloak, Bill Marrinan and Katherine La Mancusa, he is one of the many State alumni who have offered their services in increasing the prestige of State.

Newman Holds Open House

Over ninety catholic students became prospective members of the Newman club when they attended the Open House given by the San Francisco State chapter of the club last Tuesday at Sienna House.

Father James Murray, chaplain of the Newman club made the welcoming address to the new and old members. The purpose of the club in uniting catholic students in secular colleges and interpreting their religion for them, was brought out by Father Murray. He also expressed the wish that all catholic students would become members of the club.

Announcement was made of the first general meeting, to be held next Tuesday, March 5, at 8 p. m. at the Sienna House.

A special meeting of the executive council of the club has been called for today at 4 at the Sienna House. Activities for the semester, including the initiation of new members will be discussed.

Activities Planned

Anita Gibbons, vice-president in charge of the Open House, expressed the belief that the Newman club would have a very active term. A day at Sigmund Stern Grove, open to all Staters, and a vaudeville review have been tentatively scheduled for this semester, according to Miss Gibbons.

Car Tickets on Sale

State students who are paying 14 cents a day for carfare may save themselves money by going to room 119c in College hall on Mondays and Wednesdays between 12 and 1 o'clock. For 52c they may buy a little card good for 16 rides on the Municipal Railway. This purchase makes the student a saving of 60 cents.

Co-op Cuties Lack Dignity

It is commonly supposed that the members of the female sex who attend college are women. However, from the actions and dress of the sex at this college one begins to doubt it. A name more appropriate would be "bobby soxers." But "bobby soxers" only go to high school or junior high school.

These Co-op cuties majoring in cosmetics, and cuttin' a rug have got to go. Slacks, jeans rolled up to the knees and shirt tails out were fine for high school, but this is college. It is time for the so-called women to grow up and be women. Slovenly attire may have been all right while the men were away at war, but now that the men are back the "Sinatra Set" should become aware of the fact that men like to look at women's clothes, not big brother's hand-me-downs.

Let us hope that the women of this college can regain the dignity that is generally associated with persons who attend college.—by E. S.

DORIS THULIN Co-Op Line Is Frightful, But Food Inside 's Delightful

New York has its Grand Central Station, Carnegie Hall has its music, and St. Louis has its smoke—but combining crowds, music, and smoke into one, San Francisco State College has emerged on top with its immortal Co-op.

Day in and day out the throngs surge through the Co-op to seek food shelter, and company.

A veteran with jiu jitsu fresh in mind pokes his way through to the spaghetti line, but contents himself with a cup of strong black coffee when the girl behind the counter says, "Sorry, there'll be some more food tomorrow." Oh well, ice cream is good too.

Food Fantasy
Then comes the fountain line—only 200 ahead of him. He's getting closer and the smell of chocolate flavoring excites his sense of taste. What—the fountain closed for the day? It was a good idea anyway.

Back to the booth with the coffee is the alternative. Where did he leave the booth? It was there a minute ago. He's been moved to a table in back of the juke box—he likes music though. Music, they call it. Who dropped the pots and pans?

The smoke is terrific and rubbing his eyes doesn't help. "What? No, lady, I'm not crying." His elbow lands in an ash tray filled with lip-stained cigarette butts, and his new jacket emerges with lipstick prints. "Lady, that's my lap you're sitting on."

Round N' Round

He thought he could take it, but he can't. It is too much to expect of a normal human being. His head is beginning to go round and round.

Time for another cup of black coffee. Away from the juke box, away from the smoke and music, back to the fountain—no coffee—through the spaghetti line, out through the portals, past the milling throngs. It would be the same tomorrow, and the next day. He had asked for an education and was getting it.

'Up Front' With Tom Thorp

As the great battle of registration died away, the screams of those wounded by the crack fifth counseling division gradually ceased. A few cringing, shell shocked old students climbed timidly out of their foxholes into the twilight, peering hopefully among the ruins for comrades who might have survived the hideous tortures of Room 105—(State's answer to Dachau.)

Most of this ragged battalion had holed up in the Co-op, an impregnable underground fortress, when the college was over-run by the invader. A few daring adventurers braved the unknown dangers of the college library, but none of them have been seen since. One or two stumbled from the student lounge, where they had lived for nearly ten days on old ping pong balls and melted snow, only managing to survive the sub-zero temperatures by using the heat from an old atomic bomb left over from last term's student round table. Some of the more cowardly students spent the week in Annex C without casualties with the exception of one who, seized with the hallucination that he was a juke box, spent three days singing "Chickory Chick."

Brain N' Brawn

As the survivors emerged they were promptly surrounded by brawny veterans and brainy freshmen, and told to start picking up cigarette butts in the music alley. However, their spirits are not broken. The Phi Eta Chi has issued the following statement:

"All old students, attention! Assemble underneath the palm tree at four o'clock tomorrow morning. We will seize Anderson hall and make a last stand in the Chem lab."

Exam Breaks "Achin' Back"

By Harry Karpilow

"Hubba! Hubba! Komen sie heir! Voulez vous...? Com-bien? Halloo Baby!"

Ex-serviceman Johnny Geeey's broad vocabulary, acquired on his compulsory wanderings in foreign countries, disturbed the studious atmosphere of San Francisco State College. This outburst was due to his first sight of the nylon and bobby-sox parade.

Laying rein to his wolfish instincts, Johnny forced himself to concentrate on the problems of the day. He had an aptitude test, an English grammar test, and a composition in store.

Self Conscious

Self-conscious, Johnny sneaked into Room 208. The room was filled with rosy-cheeked, enthusiastic youngsters. His twenty-five years made him feel middle-aged. However, huddled in a far corner, he noticed a young man with a shiny button on his lapel. Sitting next to him, Johnny opened up the conversation.

"Hello."

The other man answered, "Hello."

"You just out?"

"Yeh. You too?"

"Yeh."

And so started a wonderful friendship. Two lonely hearts had found companionship. The rest of the room, with its chattering youngsters discussing new dresses and basketball games, was forgotten as World War II was rehashed.

The aptitude test was handed out.

Oh, my gosh! What language was this?

Frosh Party in Full Swing

Frosh Frolic at Sigmund Stern Clubhouse. A capacity crowd enjoyed State's first entertainment outing of the new term and pictured above are many of the Gators who now make the news at Buchanan Heights.

BLUM'S BULLSESSION Names N' News At Buchanan Heights

With the "balance of power" virtually restored on Buchanan Heights, tonight's Phi Eta Chi dance looms as possibly the best to be held within the ivy-covered walls of State's gym in many a year. And looking at it from a purely "social science major's" standpoint, it would seem that there'll be quite a bid for "spheres of influence" tonight.

Gatorville's Incendiary Blond-shell, "Corky" Calvert, (from the whisky of the same name) is doting mother of a new idea in clubs, a sort of social seminar group entitled "The Disciples." Memo: this has the makings of a good clubicity story and will break any day now.

And El Larsen, ex music Fed Prexy tells us that, to his knowledge, there are well over thirty veterans newly signed with the Music Fed. Mm... "Music Soothes the Savage Vet!", n'est pas? Off-hand, El mentions, among the more familiar of Annex B's Bad Boys such names as Joe Pucci, Don Sutherland, Everett Faulkner, and Ken Bailey.

Switching to the world of sports for a paragraph or two, we note that a few of State's ex-basketball luminaries will be cavorting along Kezar's floor in the coming P. A. A. tournament. Emil Fanfelle and Dick Murray will lead the S. F. A. C. aggregation, while Norm "Mouse" Keller, in all probability, will be in the starting line-up for the Sacramento Senators.

Inside dope from the Junior Prom Headquarters is that Lou Rubin's top-notch Claremont Hotel dance netted close to $100.00 profit! Next big affair is the Frosh Hop scheduled for March 15!

Latest info on returning vets to the school of the Palpitating Palm reveals that Frank Lindsay, rugged six foot ex-machine gunner of the first Marine Division on Guadalcanal is back with us again—as is Jerry Sharkey, piano playing artist and recently of the Air Corps. Home again also is George Thayer, former Gator football star and during the war years an Infantry Captain in the South Pacific... Larry "Bogo" Keller and Jack Maguire of Annex C fame are another duo of former Gators who find State "good to the last drop"... hoop fans' hopes for State's future on the casaba court soared when Bob Polidori and ex-Rangers Bob Kitchen, and Del Goodyear signed up for the Spring term.

Names N' News

Gatorvillers now making good on the Sound Stage Circuit number two more, now that it's known that Felix Grosso is News Editor for KLX while George Petropoulos is "miking" for KSN... and those of you who will recall former football star Izzy Pivnick will be interested to note that his brother, Chuck Pivnick, fresh out of the Army is now one of the State family... While looking at the family album we see that Lila Rose is still the feminine master of the table tennis brigade but that she let her brother, star basketball Bill Rose slip away into the hands of Everett Dean, Stanford coach.

No longer Lone Palming is Carmen Lake who recently revealed her merger for life with the Navy, no less... and while on the subject of sweet music, feast your eyes and ears on Bill Rice, who's the "leader of the band" that plays weekends for U. C. dances... to answer some wag's question of "what's a paratrooper got that us ordinary guys ain't got—huh?" we give you six foot, sunny side up, Heinz Graalfs, who was one of those "angels with wings" with the Eighty-Second Airborne in Europe.

This N' That

A quick survey of this spring's Freshies reveals that a bumper crop has arrived. Here's some fr'instances: Glenn Jackson, State's newest answer to Hollywood, Harry Karpilow, star writer for an Army weekly in the E. T. O., Don Michaelian, Doc Thompson's latest challenge to the Spanish language and formerly with the Navy Air corps, Maury Flynn, ex-athletic ace at Washington High, as were Arthur Scott and Maurice "Moose" Nossen, also newcomers.

From Lowell has arrived Pat Allen, Secretary of the G. A. A. there, and Jean Mahrt, Vice Prexy of Holy Name's G. A. A.

Richmond High contributes Dick Masiel, head yell leader, and Ken Shubat, Senior Class President.

CO-OP CAFETERIA

CORKY CALVERT:

"After the Third Cheese Sandwich"

It was a bleak night, that day; the owls were howling without, inside. Without what? That's a good question, and well you might ask. Yes, you might ask, but you will nebbber get an answer, no, nebbber!

The mice were scurrying about the kitchen floor in the bedroom. The lamp swayed brightly in the dim chamber, lighting it cobweb by cobweb, shadow by shadow.

A little old woman named George crept noisily into the closet, where she remained for the rest of the story. It was a nice closet, and she had nothing against them; often she would stay there for months, only coming out occasionally to see what time it was. Nice old soul, George — or was her name Ethel?

It is needless to ask her; she wouldn't answer you. No, not now, not now.

Stop a Minute

Stop a minute in this grey castle, while I wipe away a salty tear for Ethel, or is it George? Let us push away the crumbling gate, and let it fall into obscurity or on my toe. Let us watch the little pink mice play in the tall weeds with a dead snake. They are his pets, and you know who he is.

Here he comes now. Do you wish to be introduced? No, I thought not; not many do, at least not at first.

Tell me of your mother, my child and let the winter winds blow,
I'll tell her you were beguiled
by the nymphs where waters flow.
You think it strange, now,
But soft! and wait, and see the antics of the purple cow that moos upon the lea.

Pretty, isn't it? I made it up myself.

As You Like It

Here is a pretty specimen of a club. Do you like it?

'Tis the Fire Dance

Not only does Corky Calvert possess the literary talent of a Gertrude Stein but she is also making a name for herself as both an excellent dancer and acrobat.

Here, you may have it. Oh, do bats bother you? They shouldn't you know, this is their house, they live here. And we are the intruders. But don't mind. Offer that one a bit of cheese, he loves cheese, and we musn't be selfish. Did he eat your finger? But you needn't mind, you have nine others. Do you hear the wind rushing through the trees? It sounds almost as if some one were moaning, perhaps he is. A clinking chain? No, only the waters of the moat at the windows below...

Wash on, oh winter waters, wash on!
And having gone, return no more to drown us as you climb, inch by inch.
Through our rotted floor.

Pearls of poetry, rather good, don't you think? I love sad poetry; puts me in the mood for thinking of her. Did I tell you about her? I loved her too, but now she is gone, in the basement, I think, or is she still lying there where I strangled her? I wonder. You want to go see? Good! Now you are one of us. Yes, there she is, a little blue, I grant you that, but still beautiful.

Ode to Elyce

Let me see... ode to Elyce... oh, well. I'll think of it later. Will you help me since you think her lovely too? I knew you would.

Slide through the gore!
Gore galore.
Make your fate
With a slice of bait
Drop it here
Do not fear
They clean on Thursday
Once a year.
Do you wish to leave now?
You want to stay?
Splendid!!!

Highnotes, Lownotes On World of Music

King Oliver's Creole Jazz Band is considered in some circles to have been the hottest aggregation ever to play jazz. Composed of the best negro talent from the vicinity of New Orleans, the Oliver band took Chicago by storm in the early '20's with its fiery improvisations and power house style. It was inspired by cornetists Joe Oliver and Louis Armstrong.

In 1923 the Oliver band made several records which are collectors' items today, despite the lack of fidelity in the recordings. Some of the King's recorded work has sold for as much as 90 dollars. It is not surprising, then, that there should be disciples of King Oliver, though the King himself is dead and his music forgotten by all but a few die-hards.

Dawn Club Opens

Tonight, in San Francisco, a group of such disciples will do their best to bring back the traditional New Orleans dance tunes in the Oliver fashion. The occasion is the return of Lu Watters' Yerba Buena Jazz Band to the Dawn Club, the local night-spot in which they made themselves known to the public in 1940. Their return is expected to be more triumphant than their debut six years ago when they played to a handful of personal friends and collectors of righteous jazz. Gradually their music caught on with the public, with State students providing impetus in the rise of the music sometimes referred to as "Dixieland." A number of these students have returned to school this semester and are eagerly awaiting the opening of the doors. Be there early! (Guest contribution by Dick Oxtot)

Chewing N' Smoking Gum Up the Works

Gum chewing can be artistic if one acquires a perfectionist's technique. The main difficulty remains, however, that most individuals lack the ambition and ability to become first class super-duper gum chewing experts. The situation does have its humorous side, because one who is aware of the possibility and constantly on the alert is able to spot a potential chewer on a moment's notice, and is able to watch the amusing procedure without divulging his interest. There are those, who, seemingly nonchalant, chew vigorously and noisily, snapping and biting into the gooey mess as if they had not eaten for days. Others, mindful of those around them, timidly munch the gum as if their jaws were locked. High school students usually come in the first group; old maids in the other. Perhaps the most fascinating of all is the individual who smokes a cigarette and chews at the same time. Often this unhappy soul gets gum on the end of the cigarette, or, worse yet, he is unfortunate enough to swallow a mouthful of smoke along with the tangy juice of the rubbery mass.

College students, sophisticated individuals, are really in the groove when it comes to gum chewing. They know how to chew — they chew in the Co-op, in the shower, in a show, in class, they even chew while they are dancing — to the rhythm of the music... oh yes, they, if no one else, are accomplished in the finer arts of living.

ExMarine Likes State--But...

By Marne Camp

The newly enrolled veterans attending San Francisco State College are highly appreciative of the way in which they were greeted by the staff and faculty. The efficient system of registration and distribution of supplies is commendable. College has been the high light in their return to civilian life.

However, there seems to be a tendency among the younger students to take the veterans as a big joke, and many doubt the veterans' sincerity of purpose. A good example is shown in a statement by a young woman recently.

"What is this, a new fad, all the veterans going to school?"

Finest Students

Many other similar remarks which are unfair, as well as insulting have been made by immature young women. No one can doubt their sincerity until there is proof to the contrary. Members of the faculty generally agree that veterans are their most attentive and interested students. It is true that some of them are a bit over-anxious and often get into prolonged discussions with their instructors. It is also true that some of them are ambitious and are always ready to recite in the classroom. For this they are called "eager beavers" which is not a complimentary appellation. In the service it means a variety of things none of which were considered praiseworthy.

Mature Men

It seems that many of the younger women expect all male students to be big, stupid oafs. They can't understand why the veterans are anxious to continue his education. These men, however, in their extensive travels and experiences have reached a maturity which no school or experience could ever give them. They have learned the hard way the value of an education. There are men here who served in China, the Near East, Africa, Europe, all parts of the Pacific and almost every remote corner of the globe. There are men

LOU RUBIN

There are a good many simple functions in life that unsuspectingly house a plethora of trouble, trials, and tribulations. Of these, the art of buying clothes for a junior member of society ranks supreme.

A rather good friend of mine, has a young son who is a rather poor friend of mine, but through no fault of my own. Evidently a gap of twelve years on the scale of life is something which my nature can not sufficiently bridge—Psych 101 to the contrary. At any rate, as a glorious peace offering, I affectionately answered the mother's plea that I be pressed into a service as a sort of valet creme de la creme, and the other day took the leader of tomorrow on a shopping spree, calculated to supply his spring garments.

Donnie Debates

The ride downtown was particularly enlivened by a violent argument between Donnie-wonnie and the cab driver on the respective abilities of two baseball players. The end of the ride, which is better left undiscussed, found lovable Donnie actively beating the cabbie about the head and shoulders, until that unfortunate individual conceded that Dimaggio was a super-here who have been in Japanese and German prison camps. They are all glad to be back, but they do not like to hear some feminine voice wisecracking and tittering in the back of the room when they stand up to recite.

Some may seem rowdy at times, but this is really just a boisterousness cropping out as a result of long, close, continual association.

Education Needed

Nor are all of them newcomers to college. Many started college before the war and some even attended this school. They have returned with a greater determination to get what they know they need most — an education.

Humorist Sees No Humor In Shopping With Babies

ior batsman to Ted Williams.

Once inside the store I became aware of a potent fact — Donnie detested shopping as thoroughly as I detested Donnie. The purchasing of undergarments progressed smoothly enough; evidently Donnie professed no opinion on what was closest to his heart. However, commencing with the pants, gross misery presented itself. Donnie immediately expressed preference for a pair of hide cowboy pants, which I concluded, reasonably enough, was somewhat out of order for the well-dressed school boy. I emphatically set my foot down, and dear Donnie just as emphatically set his down, firmly upon the saleslady's toes. I attempted to placate the young lady by launching into a scintillating discussion over the relative quality of two pairs of the trousers. However, as the round table was satisfactorily concluded, it became apparent that Donnie had become bored with the proceedings and had wandered away. We found him twenty minutes later gleefully making an obstacle course of the escalators, occasionally halted in his mad dashing up and down, by contacting nice ladies in the rear with his curly head.

Donnie's Absent Beanie

By the process of jabbing my closed fist in the small of his back at appropriate intervals, we managed to struggle through the remainder of the torture. Gathering the load of bundles in my arms and preparing to leave, I was startled by Donnie's calm observation that he had lost his beanie. Setting the bundles down with a thud, we explored the hundred places Donnie had frequented during our tenure in the store, finally narrowing the search down to the short's counter. Then began a methodical sorting of twenty-thousand pairs of shorts, of assorted colors and sizes. A half hour later we located the absent beanie in delightful Donnie's back pocket. And so the trip home — I, peering between the mass of packages in my arms, and Donnie blowing bubbles with double bubble gum.

Yes, I love shopping.

SPORT DOPE

by SCOTT HOPE

At the end of each season of any sport, the members of squads get together and pick an all-opponent team. The members of State's basketball team are fairly normal guys, and, not wanting to be exceptions they did the same. The squad they picked is as follows:

Paul Napolitano	f.	Dardi's Dandies
Andy Wolfe	f.	California Bears
Max Dodge	c.	Nevada Wolverines
Hal Wood	g.	Dardi's Dandies
Ed Maggetti	g.	San Jose Spartans

I am not going to argue with these picks, primarily because the players are the ones who had to take or give the punishment, but purely from a spectator's view I would like to make an amendment or two. Here is the squad I would choose:

1st String		2nd String
Wolfe, California	f.	Melarky, Nevada
Napolitano, Dardi	f.	Magetti, San Jose
Martin, Skaggs Island	c.	Smith, California
Cook, College of Pac.	g.	Wray, California
Mackey, Nevada	g.	Wood, Dardi

(P. S. M' boss, Bill Kennerley, just looked over m' shoulder and after a deep period of thought, he says that he concurs completely. He did, however, put in a good word for the ex-St. Mary's man, Frank Boyle, of COP, but then, I think Bill might be prejudiced.)

No Max Dodge

You will notice that the name of Max Dodge is omitted. This is not done to spite the Gator players; rather I put two and two together and got five. Max, although he did play very well against us, did not start either game, so I cannot see how he should deserve such mention. In my, perhaps bigoted outlook, a player has to perform well over a rather long period of time, at least more than half of a game. This eliminates monsignor Dodge from my all-star five.

What's in a Name Dept.

Two masculine members of this campus have added nick-names to those monickers already established through hereditary or inspirational means. Grove Mohr, recently named "Slugger," has come up with another... "Brilliant". Dan Farmer (L'il Nell) is responsible for this... Dick Bunker is being addressed about the halls and alleys as "Queenie." This is not a slur upon your personality, Dick, rather a tribute to your sterling performance as the piece de resistance of the leg of limb line at the Frosh Party.

JV's Close Season With Win

Six members of the Junior Varsity accepted the invitation of several characters to an informal basketball game at Roosevelt Jr. Hi. The JV's emerged victorious 43-30, led by sharp-shooting Bill Clark, who tallied 18 points. George Albrecht, Jim McCann, Dick Bunker, Ralph Azavedo, and Elm Roelling performed for the JV's, while Bill Campbell, Fred Hansen, Ray Milton, Ross Furneaux, Art Blum, Hank O'Connell, Hal Fox, and this scribe put in time for the pick-up club, with Furneaux topping the scorers with 12 points.

Vet vs. State:

Although the plans are in an embryo stage it is virtually certain that the State varsity will tread the boards once again this year. A basket-brawl game between the Gators and a team of war vets is being planned for the evening of March 8. The vets may be sparked by such ex-State stars as Norm Keller, Aimee Fanfelle, Carl Gustafson, Jim Keating, and many others. A dance will follow the game, sponsored by Block "S."

Big Track Turnout Greets Kaufman; Chances Hinge on Grantham, Byrne

By Paul Hungerford

State track coach Ray Kaufman is counting heavily on lettermen John Grantham and Jack Byrne, along with Bill Wilson, an experienced track man from San Jose State, to carry the load on this year's cinder squad. Although most of the 45 candidates who turned out are freshmen, they show great promise, and Kaufman foresees brilliant track teams in the next few years if they develop up to their potentialities. Henry Watty should be a stand-out in both the mile and two mile events, having had cross-country running experience with East Bay athletic clubs. Watty's running mates in the distance runs include Chuck Pottol, Lou Vasquez, who earned his block before joining the Army, John Holden, and Bill Kennerley.

Good Prospects

Prospects for the quarter and half mile really look good with "Toad" Oaks, former COP star, Jack Pileri, Byrne, and Vasquez raking in the points.

In the sprints, Kaufman is relying on Hal Fox, Art Greenbaum, Bob Seiler, Bill Buchanan, and Carter Toller to out-run their opponents. "Handsome Hank" Larmuseau, Toller, Grantham, and Greenbaum are doing the honors on the hurdles.

Fox Shows Promise

Hal Fox shows promise of becoming a great high-jumper, along with Grantham, Pileri, and Larmuseau. Representing the Gators in the broad jumps will be Gil Solomon, Dave DuBois, Toller, and Grantham.

Wilson Experienced

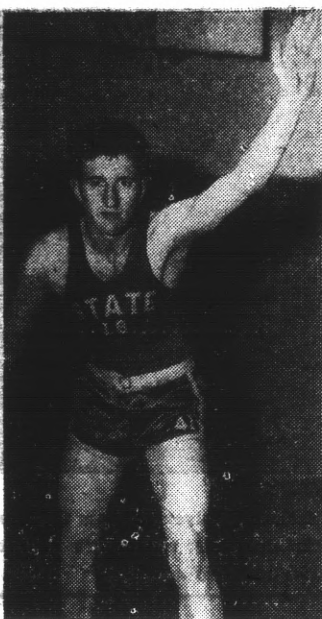

Wilson again shows his experience when he lets the discus fly. Also heaving the platter are Dick Wind, Hungerford, and Canavan. In the final event, the javelin, Milo Puizana chucks it over 200 feet. Other men who sling it are Ed Melendez, Wind, and Grantham.

Kaufman has scheduled meets with Marin JC, San Mateo JC, COP, and SFJC, and is negotiating with Chico State, Cal Aggies, Modesto JC, Menlo JC, and Santa Rosa JC.

Meets on Saturdays

The majority of the meets will take place at the new campus by Lake Merced on Saturday afternoons.

BASKETBALL

Byrne Leads Scorer; Grantham Tops JVs

Jack Byrne took individual scoring honors for State's basketball team during the past season by scoring 273 points in 20 games, for an average of 13.7 per game. Although he played but 13 games, Tom Collingwood netted 158 digits, or 12.2 per game.

Besides making 33 points in one game for a new Gator scoring record, John Grantham accounted for 224 points in 15 games to lead the junior varsity in scoring. Elm Roelling tanked 124 for the Baby Gators.

Eleven Wins

The final records for the 1946 season show that the varsity wound up the year with 11 wins against nine losses, while the jayvees came out on top nine times in 15 encounters.

Gators Break Even With Wildcats

State's varsity quintet finished a mediocre season by dividing a pair of games with Chico State, played at the Wildcats' home court. After playing heads up ball to take Friday's game 57 to 51 in overtime, the Gators lacked any resemblance of hustle and fire in losing Saturday 61 to 36.

With the score 49-49 at the end of the regular playing time Friday, the Wildcats jumped into a two-point lead in the overtime session on Tommy Tipton's bucket, but the Gators came back with eight straight points on Grove Mohr's and Jack Byrne's shots.

Mohr Scores

Mohr and Byrne led State in scoring with 17 and 16 respectively, and Eddie Cowan sank 16 for Chico.

Chico trailed by four points with two minutes left in the game, but desperation shots by Tipton and Bill Johnson knotted the count.

Comfortably ahead throughout the game, the Wildcats scored at will to take Saturday's tussle. High point honors went to Tipton, with 22, while Byrne netted 15 for the Gators.

GAFLS WIN

Mustangs Beat State Jayvees

KEZAR PAVILLION, Feb. 14—Lincoln's Mustangs trounced the state junior varsity 54 to 37, and St. Mary's nosed out U. S. F. 36 to 24 in a basketball double-header here tonight.

The Gators' defeat marked a dismal finish to a successful season. On the down-grade from peak mid-season form, the State quintet lacked its fire and fast-break effectiveness of six weeks ago.

Hamilton High Man

Scoring almost at will, the Links rolled up a 31 to 17 half-time lead, and early in the second half were ahead by 21 points. Jerry Hamilton netted 14 points for the Mustangs, while John Grantham scored 12 for the Gators.

Blow Lead

With two minutes left in the game, U. S. F. held a 34 to 30 lead over the Galloping Gaels, but couldn't hold it. Jack Rial and Henry Van Giesen sank field goals to tie it up, and Rial's layup shot with four seconds left won the contest.

Paul Crowe, of Moraga grid game, took high point honors with 28.

State Nine Opens Year; Plays San Mateo Tomorrow

RED DUNN ON MOUND FOR GATORS; FIVE LETTERMEN BOLSTER SQUAD

By Lila Rose

Batter up! Baseball, America's national pastime, is here again. The 1946 edition of the Gator nine from San Francisco State College, which gives indications of being one of the best in recent years, crosses bats with the San Mateo Junior College Bulldogs tomorrow at State's new campus field in the first inter-collegiate diamond encounter of the year. The game is scheduled for 2:00 p. m.

Coach Hal Harden's starting mound selection for the Gators will be Red Dunn, letterman pitcher from the 1942 team.

All-Star Moundsmen

The Bulldogs' pitching choice lies between John Marcus, former Sequoia high chucker, and Bill Murphy, from San Mateo high. Both of these fingers were all-P. A. L. stars in their prep days. The only letterman on the Jaycee club is "Casey" Jones, right fielder.

With five lettermen, several former local prep stars, and many players with experience on service or semi-pro teams among the 35 candidates for the State team, Harden sees a good year ahead for the Gators.

Prospects for a strong defensive infield and outfield look bright to Harden, although the calibre of pitching is still a question mark in his mind.

Azavedo Only Southpaw

Most of the pitching load will probably be carried by Dunn, Eddie Murray, a two-year letterman, and Jim Massey, who hurled two seasons for an Army team in France. Other mound prospects include Joe Perez, Mel Martin,

Kennerley Back

The only returning letterman from last season's club besides Murray is Bill Kennerley, who held down the initial sack for State and other teams, but has since returned to the outfield.

Ex-servicemen who previously earned their Block "S" awards include Dunn, Aimee Hourcade, and Mike Marcoulis. Hourcade, outfielder in 1941-42-43, hit .414 his third season, while Marcoulis, an infielder, played in 1943.

Players coming to State with reputations from San Francisco high schools include Armand Quartini, who brought glory to Balboa in 1938, Ed Pittson, who played three years for Lowell, and Frank Pulizzi, all-city shortstop from Mission.

State's chances received a jolt when Elm Roelling, the club's leading hitter for the past two seasons, was inducted into the Army this week. He is now at Camp Beale.

Cal on Schedule

Although the schedule is not yet completed, Harden announced that games have been booked with California, St. Mary's, COP, San Jose, and Marin JC.

he is slated for a short engagement in San Francisco's own Paladium, a new dance hall in this city.

Anita O'Day will leave Gene Krupa's band to settle down with her husband. She might decide to open her own niter in San Fernando Valley.

Band to Watch

The band to watch in '46 is Georgie Auld. So far Auld has not been able to sign with a top recording company and his bookings are anything but worthy of his talent, but we're rooting for him. Have you heard his recordings of Air Mail Special or Here Comes Heaven Again?

Stan Kenton and the King Cole Trio are being presented for a summer radio show. Kenton, incidentally, is planning a concert at the Municipal Auditorium in Mexico City before returning to Hollywood.

The music business is just one of the many who have felt the sudden slump. Musicians are again becoming a dime a dozen and salaries have dropped. New bands organizing every day, bookings are becoming scarce and even such bands as T. D., Spivac and Basie are starting to worry. World War II is over but as far as the relations between bands and musicians, bands and agencies, bands and waxing concerns or just bands and bands are concerned, they've all only begun to fight.

Music Fed Has "Hello Day"

Destined to become one of the outstanding events this semester, the Music Fed "Hello Day" dinner and dance started off the term's activities, Thursday, February 21.

During the day, Fed members wandered about the campus getting the names of campus cuties and returning vets on their "Hello Day" cards. Pucci's spaghetti has made history in the Fed annals, and Thursday night history was repeated when 100 Fed members dined on spaghetti with all the trimmings.

A toy symphony, composed of several members and under the direction of "Tee" Tarleton, played on tin whistles, blocks and other melodious instruments during the dinner.

A dance in annex B9 followed, where students danced to the music of Tommy Dorsey, Harry James and other big name bands—records of course. The Virginia Reel and the "broom and lemon dance" kept all dancers on their toes. Topping the evening's activities, was a can-can dance ably executed by four male victims of the "lemon dance," who presented the can-can in all its glory.

Commented Rita O'Neil, Fed prexy, "The entire day was a great success and we all had a wonderful time dining and dancing." She further stated that special commendation would be given Joe Pucci and his kitchen staff for their excellent cooperation.
